Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. The agent enriches a company, not a person.

#	Flag	On what	Recipient
1	61 duplicates called by two salespeople	1,200 records	Both salespeople, together
2	210 headcounts over three years old, 34 out of bracket	Public register	Whoever owns the account
3	190 fields with no recorded source	Enrichment log	Whoever answers for data

What the agent guarantees across your 1,200 records

What the agent guarantees	What you gain

The score is about a company situation, never about a person	A score you can defend to a customer and to a lawyer, and a CRM nobody is wary of feeding
Every work address is taken from its source, never guessed	Your messages land: a guessed address is a hypothesis sent to somebody, and it is paid for in bounces
Enrichment starts from the company and from professional sources	The 190 fields with no recorded source are the only ones you have to settle: everything else carries its origin and its date
A low-scored lead stays on the list, at the bottom, with the reason for its score	Nothing is lost: a removed lead never comes back, and one low-scored lead in eleven signs anyway
The score orders the list, and every record shows the two or three facts that produced it	Your salespeople organise their day on dated, sourced facts, and their disagreements are counted: the score corrects itself instead of imposing itself
