Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. A quiz whose result is reported upward stops being a learning tool and becomes an assessment.

Item	Kept?	What it allows
Questions asked, rephrased without anything identifying them	Yes	Seeing what is missing
Failure rate PER QUESTION	Yes	Fixing the material
Divergences between sources	Yes	Getting them settled
Module versions validated and their dates	Yes	Flagging what changed
Questions left unanswered	Yes	Filling the gaps
Named results	No — no screen allows it	Not merely no right

Item	Kept?	What it allows
Reporting a repeated failure to a third party	No	The learner retakes it as often as they like

What per-question measurement showed

Finding	Value
Learners getting the same question wrong	168 of 236
Failure rate	71 %
Is the expected answer in what they were given to read?	No

That is not a level problem, it is incomplete material — and it is checkable.

The 34 employees on an outdated version

Option	Chosen?	Why
Reset the module to the start	No	They learned something accurate at the time
Flag what changed	Yes	And nothing else

For the company to settle

Per-question failure rate triggering a material review: _____ %

Scope of this document: the service operated by Blue Lemon Agent. For an agent deployed at your premises, the applicable location is that of the architecture set out in the quotation and verified before commissioning; local execution is announced only for the configuration explicitly described and accepted in the quotation; the applicable isolation depends on the deployment mode set out in the quotation, no dedicated isolation being presumed; the encryption mechanisms in transit and at rest, their components and key management are those documented for the architecture chosen; roles and permissions are configured and accepted for the identities and systems actually connected; the events logged, their content, their retention period and who may access them are defined for the deployment chosen.
