Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. The first flag goes out the same day: every contract generated from the old version is one more to revisit, and the counter is running.

#	Flag	What triggered it	At stake	Recipient	Chase
1	Out-of-date template still in use	23 contracts since 12/06	The counter is running	Lawyer + whoever amended it	24 h
2	3 diverging liability clauses	Same type of service	Consistency	Lawyer, grouped	7 d
3	Mandatory field blank in 14 signed contracts	"term: … months"	Signed by both parties	Contract owner	7 d
4	Annex cited and absent	2 templates	Documentary	Template creator	7 d

> The third flag concerns contracts already signed: there is nothing for the tool to fix. What is fixable is the setting that allowed a contract to be generated with a mandatory field blank.

The four acts that stay with your lawyer — and the file waiting for them

The act	What you gain
Writing a clause	The gap is flagged, with the template and its creator: your lawyer writes it once, and the clause then holds for every contract drawn from that template
Filling a mandatory field	No contract goes out with a blank field any more: no value nobody negotiated, and no term that cannot be found three years later
Signing and sending to the third party	The contract reaches your desk assembled, complete and reviewed: sending commits the company, it stays an act, and it now costs you one gesture
The opinion on a contract's validity	The fourteen contracts concerned come back sorted, with what the re-reading established: your adviser answers on a file that is ready instead of on a pile
