Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. No price is set by the agent, no discount is granted.

#	Flag	On what	Recipient	Chase
1	41 off-list requests	Price list	Salesperson concerned, quote ready except the price	Monthly
2	18 quotes with no validity period	Company template	Whoever issued them	Monthly
3	3 website prices ≠ price list	Published prices	Whoever owns pricing	Monthly
4	23% of quotes unanswered	612 quotes	Whoever issued them, once	One only

What stays with your salesperson — and the quote already waiting for them

What stays your decision	What the agent has already done
Setting a price	The 41 off-list requests arrive with the quote ready, all but the price: a quote is an offer, the figure written can be accepted — and it takes one line to write
Granting a discount	The full quote and the customer's history in front of you; a discount is a commercial decision, and it stays yours
Sending the quote to the customer	The document is assembled and checked against the company template, validity period included: it goes out signed by somebody, and it goes out in one click
Modifying a quote already sent	A replacement quote is prepared, dated and numbered: the original is in somebody else's hands, and it stays there as it is
Settling a required particular	The gap against the company template is listed — 18 quotes with no validity period, 3 website prices diverging from the list — and raised with whoever owns the rule
