Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. An e-signature tool says "awaiting signature". This exhibit says who is awaited, on which counterpart, for how many days, and how long that counterparty usually takes.

The 17 files in the workflow

Status	Files	What follows
Signed on both sides	9	Filed, obligations extracted, deadline schedule open
Awaiting a single signature	5	Chaser calibrated on the counterparty's usual turnaround
Awaiting a schedule	3	1 insurance certificate, 2 signing authorities — requests sent

Signature turnaround, counterparty by counterparty

Counterparty	Average observed	Chaser calibrated at	Live files
Sarnier	4 days	D+3 then D+8	2
Doranne	9 days	D+8 then D+15	3
Town of Loubrac	22 days	D+15 then D+30 — a D+3 chaser would serve no purpose	1
Panel subcontractors	6 days	D+3 then D+8	11

What the tracking has moved

Measure	Last 12 months	Across the 17 live files	Effect
Average dispatch → full signature	19 days	6 days	13 days gained
Share of contract administration time	35 %	5 %	One day a week handed back
Revenue invoiced earlier	—	—	≈ €2,700 per file, average contract €75,000/yr

Chaser proposed: D+3 then D+8 by default, calibrated to the counterparty, in wording you approve once. It stops the second the signature arrives, and the wording can be changed at any time.

What the tracking keeps for each file: the counterpart concerned (client original, Velmaris original, subcontractor copy), the expected signatory and their authority, the dispatch date, every chaser with its timestamp, and the signature date. The log exports with one click and answers a client audit in ten minutes.
