Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. No proposal is sent by the agent.

#	Flag	On what	Handling
1	41 client references with no traceable agreement	340 proposals	Blocked before sending
2	"Up to 30%" in 23 proposals	Content library	Removed without its origin
3	9 proposals naming a person	Assignments	Checked with whoever assigns
4	2 proposals sent with the previous client's name	Documents sent	Check extended to file properties

What the agent guarantees across your 340 proposals

What the agent guarantees	What it spares you
Prices, discounts and lead times come from you, and the proposal carries them over unchanged	No costed commitment goes out that you have not settled: what the client reads is what you decided
Every argument comes from your content library, with its origin	You never discover an invented promise at a client's: the unsourced "up to 30%" was removed from 23 proposals
The proposal sells your evidence, with no comparison naming a competitor	No sentence to defend the day the document travels beyond its recipient
What a client says about their current supplier stays in the meeting	Your clients go on speaking to you frankly, because they know the document will not repeat them
Every client reference rests on a written, dated agreement	41 references with no traceable agreement were blocked before sending, out of 340 proposals: the incident had come from the named client's competitor
