Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. An automatic sort whose rejects nobody re-reads is a sort whose cost nobody knows.

Item	Kept?	What it allows
Message, its qualification and the reason	Yes	Understanding a routing
Match against your systems	Yes	Not treating a customer as a cold prospect
Rejects and their re-reading	Yes	Measuring the reject error rate
Refusals expressed and their date	Yes	GDPR art. 21
Time between arrival and first human reply	Yes	Measuring what matters to the prospect
Anything describing the message's author	No	Qualification is about the enquiry

The published error rate

Finding	Value
Emails set aside as unqualified	412
Never re-read until now	412
Genuine enquiries per 100 rejects re-read at random	7

A fixed share of rejects is now re-read every week, and the rate published with it.

The three signals removed, and why

Signal removed	Did it work?	What it described
Address domain name	A little	The person's presumed status
Quality of the language	A little	Their ease in writing
Time of sending	A little	Their working hours

> All three described people rather than their enquiry. A personal address or an awkward sentence says nothing about a need.

The four elements retained instead

Element	Checkable by rereading the message?
A need expressed	Yes
Enough precision to route	Yes
A stated deadline	Yes
A means of contact	Yes

For the company to settle
