Fictional document

> Fictional document — demonstration example
> This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

> Fictional document, produced for demonstration. What the banner achieves, measured — and the setting that does better.

What every summary of a binding document carries

"This summary does not replace the document; read it before signing." — at the head, in bold, with the full document attached.

Outcome despite the line	Contracts
Document opened in full before signature	4
Signed without opening the document	3

> A warning read a hundred times stops being read. That is true of every banner, and the agent has no reason to be the exception — saying so is better than adding a > second warning.

What is proposed, and what it is not

Proposal	Is it a block?
The summary opens alongside the document, never alone	No
An "I have read" tick-box	Not proposed
A second warning	Not proposed

What stays guaranteed, whatever happens

What the agent does	What it spares you
Every contract is summarised, including the ones signed in a hurry	A 60-page contract left unsummarised is skimmed

Which is worse, because nobody knows what was skipped.

> Request a demo with your own documents
> This document is a fictitious example. To see the agent work on your own documents, request a demo from its page.

Scope of this document: the service operated by Blue Lemon Agent. For an agent deployed at your premises, the applicable location is that of the architecture set out in the quotation and verified before commissioning; local execution is announced only for the configuration explicitly described and accepted in the quotation; the applicable isolation depends on the deployment mode set out in the quotation, no dedicated isolation being presumed; the encryption mechanisms in transit and at rest, their components and key management are those documented for the architecture chosen; roles and permissions are configured and accepted for the identities and systems actually connected; the events logged, their content, their retention period and who may access them are defined for the deployment chosen.
