Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. The calculation rests on the firm's timesheets and its average fees, not on a sector average. It stands as a method, not as a promise: the size of the gain is confirmed by a pilot.

Where the capacity comes from

Step of the calculation	Value	Source
Time handed back per month	21.0 staff-days	Sum of the four measured items
Average time spent on a micro-business file	1.7 staff-days a month	The firm's timesheets
Capacity released	12 files	21.0 ÷ 1.7
Files actually taken on	11 in March and April	The twelfth is under discussion

What it weighs

Item	Annual amount
Average fees on a file of this type	€2,400
11 additional files, with no hire	+ €26,400
The agent's subscription, from €338 a month	− €4,056
Ratio	To recalculate on your actual fees
Accounting assistant post not recruited	Not counted in the ratio above

What the agent advises against, and quantifies: taking on all 12 files at once in September. The firm's two heaviest months are April and May — its own history over three financial years says so. A file taken on in September reaches production at the worst possible moment; the capacity, on the other hand, is there all year.

The six uses in service

Use	Live from	Gain carried
Answering routine questions	Week 1	55 % → 9 %
Finding and quoting an item in a file	Week 1	35 % → 6 %
Chasing missing documents	Week 2	40 % → 8 %
Preparing the advisory file	Week 2	48 → 22 minutes
Maintaining internal doctrine	Week 3	38 positions written, 6 arbitrations
Consultation and approval log	Week 1	4,812 consultations logged

What plugs in alongside the agent, on the same machine

Need	What covers it	What plugging in changes

Line-by-line extraction of incoming documents	A dedicated document-processing agent	Same machine, same logging
Spotting anomalies in the entries	A dedicated accounting agent	Same architecture, same partitioning
The advice itself	The certified accountant	The agent prepares, it does not sign

> Go-live: three weeks, file by file, with no interruption to production. The firm measures a quarter before extending — the figure decides, not the agent.

For the firm to set
