Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. The 38 positions are reconstructed from the firm's advisory notes, signed letters and file annotations — not written by the agent. A position is an answer the firm has given at least three times in the same way.

What each position carries

Field	Why it is there
The question as a client asks it	A doctrine written in specialist language is never found at the useful moment
The answer the firm gave	The text actually sent, not a rewording
Number of files where it was applied	Distinguishes a position from an isolated opinion

Field	Why it is there
Date last applied	A position last applied in 2019 deserves review before being served again
Signatory	A signature is not a counter: it is what engages the firm

The collection, in figures

Measure	Value	What it implies
Positions reconstructed	38	Written down for the first time
Uncontested positions	32	Already applied — the quality partner is only acknowledging it
Divergent positions	6	Two different answers depending on the staff member
Files affected by the 6 divergences	74	The real cost of the disagreement
Positions signed by the two departing partners	23 of 38	What they know leaves the firm with them, unless it is written down first
Positions unused for more than 2 years	5	To review first

The agent does not say which of the two versions is right. It says a firm cannot have two doctrines, and it puts both versions side by side with the files concerned. One hour in a meeting settles all six.

The six divergences, as put to arbitration

Subject	Version A	Version B	Files
Director's meal expenses while travelling	Treatment used by 2 staff members	Treatment used by 3 staff members	21

What the agent does next, without being asked again: every signed piece of advice that creates a new position is added to the collection, with its date and its signatory. A doctrine that is not kept current becomes oral again within eighteen months.
