Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. Regulatory texts are designated by their subject matter and not by an official reference: inventing a reference in a demonstration document would be a worse mistake than giving none. In a real deployment, every line carries the exact reference and the link to the original publication.

What the week produced

Measure	Value	Comment
Publications seen	2,148	Across 61 declared sources
Items kept	31	Each with its original publication, dated and quoted
Publications discarded	2,117	Each with its reason written down — see the filtering attachment

Measure	Value	Comment
Made available at	Sunday 10 p.m.	Approval expected Monday before 9 a.m.

The 31 items, by scope

Scope	Kept	Detail	Recipient
Competitive	14	3 confirmed facts, 11 announcements — told apart	Sales director
Trade press	12	Including 5 mentions of Norélia	Communication officer
Regulatory	5	Including 2 deadlines inside the declared scope	Quality and regulatory manager

The shape of the summary, and why each part exists

Part	Content	Question it answers
What has changed	New facts, a paragraph each, link and date	“What happened this week?”
What has not changed but is coming	Known deadlines drawing closer	“What is about to land on me?” — the part nobody writes
What needs a decision	3 points at most, person named by role	“What do I have to do?”
What was discarded	Volumes by reason, in one line	“What am I not seeing?” — invisible filtering cannot be corrected

The time this shifts

Task	Today	Prepared by the agent, to approve

Reviewing the sources	50 %	12 %
Writing the summary	35 %	12 %
Weeding out repetition	25 %	6 %

> Nothing goes out before approval. The summary waits for the quality and regulatory manager; if it is not approved, it is not circulated. The agent never circulates anything on its own.
