Fictional document — demonstration example
This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document. No redaction is applied at this stage: the four proposals below are waiting for the privacy officer's validation, and each of them is lifted with one click.

The four items, reason by reason

Item	Original text	Proposed text	Reason retained
After-sales exchange 14/03	“… as with Mrs Delaunay-Ferrier, whose order was going out the same day…”	“… as with [third-party customer], whose order was going out the same day…”	Another customer's name does not fall within the requester's right of access
After-sales exchange 02/05	“Mr Sorel had the same defect on this model.”	“[third-party customer] had the same defect on this model.”	Same reasoning — and the defect itself is kept: it is information useful to the requester

After-sales exchange 11/06	“Grouped delivery with 14 rue Chaptal, Mrs Rivoal.”	“Grouped delivery with [third-party address and customer].”	A third party's name AND address: both are removed, either one without the other would still identify
Complaint 28/07	“The sales assistant, Aline Perrot, told me that…”	“The sales assistant, [member of staff], told me that…”	Data relating to an employee; the substance of her answer is kept in full

What was left unredacted, and deliberately so

Element	Decision	Reason
Internal assessments of the requester's file	Kept	These are data concerning the requester himself
Grounds for refusing a goodwill gesture	Kept	The requester has the right to know what the decision was based on
Name of the store and of the department concerned	Kept	That is not third-party data, it is an organisation

Redacting more would have been more comfortable and less accurate. The right of access covers the data concerning the requester, including those that do not suit him; redaction protects third parties, it does not protect the company from what it wrote.
