Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. The first flag does not assert a breach: it records a missing document. The agent sees the movements on your paperwork and cannot find the receipt that closes them — it puts the question to you, it does not conclude on your behalf.

#	Flag	What triggered it	State	Recipient
1	3 movements with no notification receipt	Movements in the register, no receipt on file	9 days past if not notified	You
2	Product invoice with no entry	Invoice of 04/08, register silent	To put right	You
3	Sprayer inspection	Due in 34 days, centre booked up	Book now	You
4	Liability cover expires 31/08	Live grant application requires it in date	24 days	You + broker

Flag 1 — what the agent sees, and what it does not

Element	Seen?	Where
The movement took place	Yes	Collection note of 28/07, livestock register
The date of the movement	Yes	The same documents
The applicable window	Yes	Seven days, restated on your earlier receipts
A notification receipt for this movement	Not found	Receipts file
A declaration made from the portal	No — invisible to the agent	Outside its access

> The last row is what stops the agent asserting a breach. The window runs to receipt by the identification body, and that receipt is read off the acknowledgement — not off the farm's own paperwork. A declaration made without filing the receipt leaves exactly the same trace as a forgotten one: the agent says so rather than deciding.

> The third looks least urgent and is in fact the most constrained. 34 days to the deadline, but slots booked to mid-October: it is the centre's diary that governs, not the due date.

The monthly summary is not a convenience: it is the document you produce on inspection day to show the gaps were known and dated, not discovered on the spot.
