Fictional document

> Fictional document — demonstration example
> This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

> Fictional document, produced for demonstration. A document resaved in 2026 and written in 2017 would look current — the worst of both worlds: old and reassuring.

Type of date	What it indicates	Used by the agent?
Content date	When the text was written or reviewed	Yes, where it exists
File date	The last open-and-resave	No
Today's date	Nothing	No

What the agent says

"According to [document], undated..."

> Two words, and the reader knows what they are holding. It is not comfortable, and that is intended — the comfort would come from an invented date.

Indicator	Value
Documents with no content date at go-live	96
Dated by their authors within two months	31
Dated by the agent	0

> The thirty-one were dated because the word "undated" appeared in answers those authors were reading themselves. No chasing was needed: the word is visible where it stings.

The figure the agent publishes about itself

What happened	Scale	Measured cause	What was done
A deposit date served as a content date	18 documents, 23 answers, over nine days in March	The document management tool changed version on 3 March: its export shifted by one column, and the field read as the content date carried the deposit date	Connector realigned on the new export
The 23 answers concerned	23	—	Re-served correctly dated to those who had received them

What happened	Scale	Measured cause	What was done
What stops the case recurring	—	—	The export's column headings are compared at every ingestion: an export that moves is flagged before it is read

The agent is the one that spotted the gap: eighteen documents dated the same day do not happen. The measure is published here because it belongs to the agent, not to the document base — it appears neither in the count of the 96 undated documents nor in any indicator about the base.

Why the agent does not date them

Consequence	Effect
A date applied by the agent	Would be an invented date
In the base	Indistinguishable from a real one
