Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. Amounts are deliberately omitted: what is demonstrated here is the structure of the payslip — which items must appear and on what basis —, not a payroll calculation.

Payslip 1 — Solmieux file, fictional employee N. Ferrandat

Item	Before	After	Source of the addition
Base salary	present	present	Employment contract
Additional hours	present	present	Approved time sheet
Seniority bonus	ABSENT	present	Collective agreement recorded in the file — 3 years of service reached on the 12th
Meal allowance	present	present	Collective agreement recorded in the file

Item	Before	After	Source of the addition
Contributions	present	present, recalculated	Consequence of the addition

Payslip 2 — Solmieux file, fictional employee P. Ourdance

Item	Before	After	Source of the addition
Seniority bonus	ABSENT	present	Collective agreement recorded in the file — 3 years of service reached on the 4th
Contributions	present	present, recalculated	Consequence of the addition

Payslip 3 — Verdanne file, fictional employee C. Malestrey

Item	Before	After	Source of the addition
Professional expenses reimbursement	ABSENT	present	Company agreement filed in January, never activated since
Net social amount	present	present, recalculated	Consequence of the addition

What the check does not invent: the collective agreement and the company agreement recorded in the file are the firm's own source. The agent applies the rule as given; checking that this really is the applicable agreement remains the officer's act.

Why correct before issue rather than after

A payslip must carry the items listed in Article R. 3243-1 of the French Labour Code, and the employer keeps a copy for five years under Article L. 3243-4 of the same code. A payslip corrected after issue leaves two versions in the archive, an explanation owed to the employee and, most often, a correction to carry into the following month's return. The
