Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. It describes what can be checked in a log, not what is promised in a contract.

Partitioning between the three organisations

Item	Shared	Partitioned
Founders' files	—	Yes, strictly
Templates and vocabulary	—	Yes — each organisation has its own
Approval rules	—	Yes
Official pages and their dates	Yes — they are public	—

Item	Shared	Partitioned
Aid checklist	Yes, in each one's colours	—

Control	Result over two months
Cross-organisation accesses	0
Access logs readable by each manager	Yes, per organisation
Files returned by a search launched from a partner	That partner's only

The three automatic actions

Action	Trigger	How it stops
Chasing a missing document	Calendar set by the organisation	A word, per file or in general
Recalculating a cut-off date	Change of start-of-activity date	A word
Flagging an official page that has moved	Update date changed	A word

What is never automatic

Act	Who carries it
Handing a document to a founder	The adviser, whose name and date are on it
Writing that a founder is eligible	The adviser — the agent supplies the rule, the source and the date
Recommending a legal form or a tax regime	The adviser
Concluding on whether a project stands up	The adviser

Act	Who carries it
Filing the formality on the single window	A human

> General information on one side, advice on the other: it is that separation that makes the tool deployable under white label. An agent that wrote « eligible » would commit the organisation without any professional having established the situation — and the attestation would be worth nothing to a funder.

The technical base, invariant

Point	Commitment
Hosting	France, local inference or isolated resource
Transfer outside the European Union	None
Cloud Act / FISA 702	Exposure reduced by design
Retention periods	Set per document category, applied automatically
Training a third-party model	No file, no unfiled project used
