Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. The figures are read together: a document kept current is worth nothing if shop-floor reports dry up.

What moved over twelve months

Indicator	Before	Over the year
Reports attached to a line of the document	39 out of 61	94 out of 94
Actions closed on evidence	11	31, including 4 reopened for want of evidence
Delay between trigger event and update put forward	4 and a half months	6 days
Accidents with time off	3	1 — one year proves nothing, to be read over three

The hours returned, task by task

Task taken over by the agent	Hours returned over the year
Gathering and attaching shop-floor reports	62
Drafting and formatting updates	44
Tracking and chasing actions	31
Preparing prevention plans	18
Extracts and availability requests	13
Total	168 hours

Converted on the statutory basis of 35 hours a week: 168 hours make more than four weeks of work, rounded down. The figure in hours remains the reference.

The figure the agent publishes about itself, and what is done with it

Measure	Value	Cause established	Correction under way
Ratings raised by the safety committee	5 out of 34	All 5 concern on-site fitting — reports made verbally, never in writing	Reporting channel from the fitters' phones
Fitting reports	8 over 12 months	No channel suited to the field	18 in 3 months after the channel opened

> It was never a shop-floor problem, it was a channel problem. An employee who has to come back to the workshop to report something does not report.
