> Fictional document — demonstration example
> This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

> Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. The four figures are read together: a shorter delay bought with pointless requests to clients is not progress.

What moved

Indicator	Before	Over two months
Signings pushed back for a missing document	38 % of files	11 %
Average time to obtain a document	23 days	14 days
Formality rejections	14 over the year	1, fixed in 48 h
Time returned to the clerks	—	148 hours, more than four weeks

Converted on the statutory basis of 35 hours a week: 148 hours make more than four weeks of work, rounded down. The figure in hours remains the reference.

The figure the agent publishes about itself, and what is done with it

Measure	Value	Cause established	Correction under way
Document requests made for nothing	7 out of 412	Files predating 2016, never carried into electronic file management	Taking in the 340 files concerned, 3 weeks of processing
Clients contacted pointlessly	7	Same cause	« Paper predecessor » warning before every request

The remaining 11 % of postponements

Cause of postponement	Files	What would accelerate it
Managing agent slow to produce a statement	4	Nothing on the agent's side — chaser and call already in place
Municipal planning certificate	3	Requesting it when the file opens
Heir living abroad	2	Earlier contact, time difference taken into account

> Trade benchmark, indicative: a routine sale file draws on some thirty documents from six or seven third parties. It is the number of third parties, not of documents, that sets the pace — hence the effect of chasers.
