Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. The figure that does not flatter the agent is published by the agent, with its cause and the correction that followed. No correction took place after a member had been notified.

The two quarters

Quarter	Outputs	Substantive corrections	Rate
First	6,200	174	2.8 %
Second, after the templates were revised	5,900	53	0.9 %

The cause, measured

Origin	Volume	Nature
--------	--------	--------

Five templates not revised since the instructions last changed	109	A document no longer needed but still requested, a reference period that changed, the name of a service that has merged
Situations with no precedent in eight years of files	65	Multiple activities, a holding straddling two counties, a seasonal worker registered elsewhere during the year

This was not a drafting error: the agent was faithfully reusing a template that had aged. Each template now carries the governing instruction and its date, and any new instruction triggers the rewriting of the template concerned within 24 hours.

The rule that holds the rest

Situation	What is done	Result for the quarter
A value not read	It is not written: it is asked for, with the request already drafted to its addressee	418 missing values, 418 requests prepared, 377 answers within 8 days
An untraceable period	Never becomes "presumably continuous"	The file states what is missing and who holds it

Protecting the caseworkers' signature

Indicator	Two quarters
Outputs approved by a person	12,100 out of 12,100
Corrections made before notification	227 out of 227 — none after

Of the 53 corrections of the second quarter, 44 already fell within one of the 14 new templates: the same correction as the one on aged templates, taken one notch further.
