Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. Both settings were rerun over the same twelve months before anything went into service, so that the threshold is chosen on figures. The tightened setting is written, tested and handed over for the service's signature.

The two settings, over the same twelve months

Version	Flags	Confirmed after review	Share confirmed
Broad setting — every gap between document and declaration	640	121	19 %
Tightened setting — significant gap relative to the amount, or inconsistency of period	210	118	56 %

The cause, measured

519 of the 640 flags concerned gaps of less than €40 or date differences of less than a fortnight — that is, the normal life of a farm, not an anomaly. The 3 confirmed cases the tightened setting lets through surface in the quarterly sample check, and they came out of it all three times.

What it changes on both sides of the desk

For	Effect
The caseworkers	430 fewer files to review a year
The members	430 fewer requests for explanation over a €30 gap
Control	118 of the 121 anomalies still caught

What each flag carries

Element	Why it is there
The document and the declaration side by side	The review starts on facts
The exact line where they diverge	No more cross-reading of two whole documents
The size of the gap	Relative to the amount at stake
The three most frequent explanations for that kind of gap in your files	In two thirds of cases the explanation is the right one, and the review takes two minutes

> A control rule that is not measured drifts in silence. This one is handed over each quarter with its record — flags produced, share confirmed, anomalies caught by the sample — and it takes effect only through the service's signature.

To be settled by the fund
