Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. The agent flags, documents, and never corrects. A register is worth its chain: if an entry can appear without an author, no entry in the register proves anything any more — including the thousands that were perfectly regular.

This month's anomalies, by family

Family	Number	What reveals it	Cleared within five days
Documents referred to and absent	9	The referring document	7
Receipt date earlier than the date of issue	4	A keying error, never anything else	4
Duplicates	3	Two records, two titles	3

Family	Number	What reveals it	Cleared within five days
Cross-reference to a non-existent document	2	The number cited corresponds to nothing	2
Entry with no attached document	1	The register mentions an operation, the document was never recorded	1
Total	19		17

What each flag carries

Item	Form	Reason
The anomaly	Described factually	—
The document or documents revealing it	Wording copied word for word	Never reworded
Date of recording	Time-stamped	Reconstructing the order of events
Officer who made the entry	By name	Not to call them into question: they alone know what was in front of them that day

Action taken

Outcome	Number	Time
Cleared by a registry officer	17	Five days
Awaiting a document requested from a court	2	Tracked in the weekly statement
Corrected without an entry by a named officer	0	—

The weekly statement of open anomalies is ordered by proximity to a deadline, not by age. A three-week-old anomaly on a file with no deadline is less urgent than yesterday's on a file falling due on Monday — and ordering by age does not say so.
