Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. This exhibit is published by the agent itself: an unfavourable measure known to the department before it is known elsewhere is worth more than the same measure discovered later. It arrives with its cause and with the correction already applied.

The measure, two quarters running

Quarter	Searches	Answers given on a version that was no longer the latest	Share
First	240	19	7.9 %
Second	260	2	0.8 %

The cause, measured and not supposed

Cause	Cases concerned	Correction applied	Measured effect
Subscription database reloaded once a month, on the first of the month	14 of 19	Database run every night	0 case in the following quarter
Three areas outside the scope of the subscription	5 of 19	Areas added and run back over twelve months at once	4 changes surfaced that had come up nowhere
Texts published on the very day of the answer	2 in the second quarter	Automatic re-flagging the next morning	The 2 departments informed before use

The rule that holds the result: an answer does not die on the day it is signed

Mechanism	What it produces
Every opinion stays attached to the texts that found it	The day one of them moves, the re-flagging note goes out on its own to the recipient department
Every answer carries the date of the version it is made on	The department knows, without searching, which state of the law it relies on
Re-flagging notes sent over the year	31, of which 9 on the very first night of go-live
Missing documents requested from their named holder	44 requests prepared, 39 answers back within eight days

Two areas account for 19 of the 31 re-flagging notes of the year: those are the ones the watch will focus on first next year. The page is written and joins the doctrine handbook.
