Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. When the answer is not in the library, the agent hands over the map of the ground rather than a silence: what the provisions say, what they leave unsettled, the neighbouring decisions and the court's own precedents.

What the map contains

Section	Content	What it allows
Applicable provisions	What they say, and what they do not expressly settle	The difficulty is named at the top, not discovered at the end
Neighbouring decisions	7 retained, in two columns: what brings them close to the case, what sets them apart	It is the comparison that sheds light, not the number of references

Section	Content	What it allows
Published academic positions	Author and date, identified as such	Never presented as law
The court's own precedents	3 files where a neighbouring question was settled	The benchmark that carries the most weight, because it is yours

What it moves

Measure	Before	After
Annual searches on questions with no settled answer	62	62
Preparation time for each	Half a day	30 minutes
Decisions delivered within the time the court had set itself	41 out of 62	58 out of 62

These are not hours saved: these are cases judged on time. It is the measure that speaks to court users, and the only one they would notice without reading a dashboard.

The next step proposed — the court's decisions, searchable

Measure	Status	What it gives
Index of the decisions delivered by the court	One year already indexed as a demonstration	The 3 neighbouring files come out in one sentence
Full scope	Twelve years of reasoned decisions	Today retrievable from memory only

> The index copies no decision: it carries what is needed to find them where they are, with the same access rights as the application they come from.
