Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. The record is available the same evening as the hearing, the draft minutes the next morning. The registry corrects; it no longer drafts.

The record of decisions

What is carried	Detail
Case and case number	In the order of the list
Sense of what was pronounced	As pronounced, without interpretation
Date of the next step	Reserved judgment, adjournment, removal from the list — the line missing once in five when the record was drafted eight days later
Steps the hearing triggers	17 for this hearing: services, summonses for the adjourned date, transmissions

The drafting rule, and why it protects the court

Nature	Handling	Reason
What was pronounced	Reported exactly	That is what makes the record
Exchanges at the hearing	Reported without interpretation	The minutes describe, they do not assess
Reasoning of the decision	Never summarised: the record points to the decision once delivered	It belongs to the judge who signs it, and it is what makes the decision open to challenge, therefore defensible

What that changes for the parties

Measure	Before	After
Record available	8 days after the hearing	The same evening
Draft minutes	Drafted by the registry	The next morning, to be corrected
Services on the parties	—	Going out 6 days earlier on average
Hearings concerned	456 a year	All of them

Six days on an appeal deadline is not service comfort: it is time given back to the party to decide what to do.

> The evening record waits in draft and goes out in one click to the presiding judge and the hearing registry. Across last month's 38 hearings, it would have won eight days for each of the 17 chains of steps a hearing triggers.
