Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. The backlog is sorted, not stacked: classifying by type decides the checking effort, because not every annotation calls for the same attention. The agent enters nothing — it prepares the match, and entry follows sign-off.

The backlog, by type

Type of annotation	Volume	Checking attention	Reason
Marriage and divorce	1,010	Standard	The notice received carries the same identities as the record concerned
Death	200	Standard	Identities and date, with no effect on parentage

Type of annotation	Volume	Checking attention	Reason
Acknowledgement of parentage, change of surname or forename	250	Heightened	They touch on parentage and identity — presented separately, never mixed in with the rest
Total	1,460	—	including 318 waiting more than six months

The clearance calculation, reproducible

Term	Value	Source
Annotations to enter	1,460	Notices received and not processed
Sign-off rate held over the trial week	45 a day	Record kept by the head of the registration service
Duration	7 weeks	Without a single hour of extra help and without touching the current flow
Current flow during the clearance	About 60 a week	Prepared in parallel

What the backlog costs, and to whom

Situation	What happens today	What happens with a 4-day turnaround
A family asks for a copy of a record	The record may not state the situation as it stands today	The copy carries every annotation, up to date
A notary asks for a full copy for an estate	The same stakes, with consequences for the estate — and the record up to date from day 4	The record is up to date

Situation	What happens today	What happens with a 4-day turnaround
Discovery of the discrepancy	At the counter, in front of the member of the public	It does not happen

What the agent does, and what belongs to the service

Step	Who does it
Identify the record the notice concerns	The agent
Place the notice and the record side by side, discrepancies highlighted	The agent
Draft the annotation in the service's own wording	The agent
Sign off	The head of the registration service
Enter the annotation on the record	The service, after sign-off — and it is that sign-off that carries proof

A civil status record is altered only by the hand of whoever answers for it.
That is why preparation can move fast without the checking shifting an inch.
