Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. Indexing works on the CONTENT of files, not on their names. The document being searched for was called LE_v2_def_OK.docx and carried neither the advertiser's name nor its version number.

The request, and what comes back with it

Document	Date	Why it is attached
Novaris editorial voice v2	03/09/2024	The document sought — last version before the name change
Name-change brief	10/2024	Explains what moved in the vocabulary
Transition glossary	10/2024	22 replaced terms, old and new side by side
14 articles still online	2022-2024	They use the old brand name — a decision is needed

What makes a file findable when its name lies

Clue read	What it yields
Vocabulary specific to the brand	The advertiser, even without its name in the file
Filing date and version history	The version that governs
Nature of the content	Editorial voice, brief, deliverable, contract, glossary
Internal cross-references	The linked documents, returned with the one sought

The state of the document store

Finding	Volume	Consequence
Pieces indexed	3,120	9 years of archives
With no usable file name	940	Those are the ones you look for on a Friday evening
Duplicate versions	268	Risk of starting again from an outdated version
“Looking for a document”, quarterly timesheets	26 h	More than three working days across eleven people

> Indexing renames nothing and moves nothing. Your current paths keep working: the agent adds a reading, it does not reorganise your document store.

For the studio to settle

What happens to the 14 articles carrying the old brand name (rework / date / leave):
