Fictional document

Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. The sentence written to win becomes the sentence you are judged on for three years, and whoever performs it is not whoever wrote it.

Element	Value
Earlier bids examined	41
Reused paragraphs carrying a lead-time commitment	34
Contradicted by operational data	34
Corrected by the agent	0
Held pending a decision	34

None goes into a file until it is settled. It is a hold, not a correction: the agent does not know what lead time the company wants to commit to.

What is supplied for each paragraph

Element	Supplied?
The source file	Yes
Its date	Yes
The written commitment, quoted	Yes
The current measurement, with its source	Yes
A corrected figure	No
A recommendation	No

Why reuse is the central trap

What changes between two files	Visible in the paragraph?
The scope	No
The resources available	No
The season or the workload	No
The contract's length	No

A copied paragraph looks identical because it is. What has changed is everything around it.

Scope of this document: the service operated by Blue Lemon Agent. For an agent deployed at your premises, the applicable location is that of the architecture set out in the quotation and verified before commissioning; local execution is announced only for the configuration explicitly described and accepted in the quotation; the applicable isolation depends on the deployment mode set out in the quotation, no dedicated isolation being presumed; the encryption mechanisms in transit and at rest, their components and key management are those documented for the architecture chosen; roles and permissions are configured and accepted for the identities and systems actually used.
