Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. None of those 41 answers was an invention: each cited an accurate page, current within its own universe.

Element	Finding
Answers citing a source	41
Sources accurate when written	41
Describing behaviour the product no longer has	41
Inventions by the agent	0

The user could check the source, and checking confirmed the answer. Two documents agreed and the product said otherwise — which is what makes this defect more insidious than an error.

What the agent now compares

Element compared	Source
Page date	The page itself
Date of the last release touching the feature	Release log

The line added when the page is older

"This page is dated [date]; the feature was changed on [date]. Here is what it describes, and I cannot guarantee it is still accurate."

Indicator	Value
Answers this quarter	400
Carrying the line	63
Where the docs were in fact still right	22

The line also appears when the documentation is still accurate. That is the price, and it is low.

> Request a demo with your own documents
> This document is a fictitious example. To see the agent work on your own documents, request a demo from its page.
