Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. It is the measure that the agent publishes about itself, which is why it publishes it first.

Indicator	Value
Reports sent	47
Opens	3
Average length	38 pages
Items per report	60 to 90
Recipients	9

A 38-page report is not a report, it is an archive. Nobody opens an archive on Monday morning.

What is proposed

Element	Before	After
Items presented	60 to 90	5
What comes with each	The title	What it changes for you + the source
The rest	In the report	In a searchable archive

The possible responses, and the one that is kept

Action	Done?	Why
Chase the recipients	No	The problem is the format
Read rate per person	No	It would move the question onto people
Keep publishing the open count	Yes	If the report is not opened, it should stop being produced

Scope of this document: the service operated by Blue Lemon Agent. For an agent deployed at your premises, the applicable location is that of the architecture set out in the quotation and verified before commissioning; local execution is announced only for the configuration explicitly described and accepted in the quotation; the applicable isolation depends on the deployment mode set out in the quotation, no dedicated isolation being presumed; the encryption mechanisms in transit and at rest, their components and key management are those documented for the architecture chosen; roles and permissions are configured and accepted for the identities and systems actually connected; the events logged, their content, their retention period and who may access them are defined for the deployment chosen.
