Fictional document — demonstration example
This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. The precedents are not textbook cases: they are the site's own past jobs, with what was found, what was changed, the time taken and the cost. The old hands' knowledge was already written down — it was simply no longer readable.

The three closest precedents

Precedent	Signal observed	Cause found	Duration	Part cost
Press 22 · March 2024	+0.39 °C a day over 24 days	Fouled heat exchanger — “scaling and fouling on the water side”	2 h 10	€180
Press 9 · November 2023	+0.9 °C a day	Hydraulic pump	6 h	€4,300
Press 17 itself · June 2022	+0.41 °C a day	Heat exchanger — same machine, prior history	2 h 40	€180

What separates the two causes, and it is the most useful information on the page: the rate of rise. Around +0.4 °C a day, the “exchanger” case; beyond +0.8, the “pump” case. Today's flag is at +0.44: very close to the first, far from the second. A ten-minute inspection settles it, and it costs less than the question.

What rereading the 18,400 reports produced

Indicator	Before	After
Share of time spent finding the precedents	40 %	5 %
A typical CMMS search	A Friday afternoon	6 minutes
Free-text job reports made usable	Unreadable at scale	18,400 searchable in one sentence
Access to the old hands' knowledge	2 people	The whole team, including a technician who arrived last month

> The next step proposed: that the two technicians about to retire reread the 40 most consulted precedents and add what the report does not say. Forty sheets, two half-days — and what was never written down finally is.
