Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. The sources watched are the ones the market managers designated themselves. Reading a change belongs to them; the file is handed to them done.

What is watched, market by market

Type of source	Designated by	What triggers an alert
Official market pages	The market manager	Any change to the passage entered in the register
Distribution contracts and amendments	The commercial department	Any amendment signed
Internal service notes	The customer service director	Any new version
Product sheets	The engineering department	Any change to a characteristic that is cited

What an alert carries

Element	Content
Source and date	The page or document, and the day it changed
Passage modified	Text before and text after, side by side
Dependent specifics	The list of register entries that rest on it
Exposure	The number of answers sent last month on that point
Decision	With the market manager

The four alerts this quarter

Alert	Nature	Time to update the register
Swedish warranty extension raised from 36 to 48 months	Distribution amendment	3 hours; Swedish answers current that same evening
Second distribution amendment	Transport cost arrangements	One week
Two official page changes	Return procedures	One week

What protects the arrangement during a review

Situation	What the customer is told	Result for the quarter
Specific under review	The answer says so and offers a call back from the local team	11 cases, 11 confirmations the same day

Extension proposed: each market manager designates two further sources they already check by hand. They gain the watching, and the register gains a review date that keeps itself.
