Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for the demonstration. Local inference means the model computes on the company's own machine: the text of a message or a lead record crosses no external network to be processed. That is the first of two possible routes; the second is an isolated resource hosted in France.

The two routes, and what each of them guarantees

Guarantee	Local inference	Isolated resource hosted in France
Prospect data leaving the company network	Never	France, under French law
Transfer outside the European Union	0	0

Guarantee	Local inference	Isolated resource hosted in France
Exposure to the Cloud Act and FISA 702 left unexamined	None	None, including where an American provider hosts in Europe
Pooling with another company	Not applicable	None — no competitor shares the environment
Training a model on your exchanges	Never	Never

Access and traceability

Measure	What it does
Encryption in transit and at rest	Prospect files, messages and logs
Role-based access	Rights follow the job: a salesperson opens the leads for their area, not the whole file and not the margins
Sending log	Who, when, which text, which address origin, which exit grounds
Access log	Every record opened, time-stamped

What the log is actually for Someone writes to ask where the company got their address. The answer is produced in ten minutes: the log line gives the exact source, the date of collection, the messages sent and the opt-out link that accompanied each of them. That request comes in on average three times a quarter at a company the size of Marnex — and it is the only moment at which the difference between disciplined outreach and improvised outreach can be measured.

> The commercial argument, and it cannot be invented: on the last two framework maintenance tenders Marnex answered, hosting the data in France was

Scope of this document: the service operated by Blue Lemon Agent. For an agent deployed at your premises, the applicable location is that of the architecture set out in the quotation and verified before commissioning; local execution is announced only for the configuration explicitly described and accepted in the quotation; the applicable isolation depends on the deployment mode set out in the quotation, no dedicated isolation being presumed; the encryption mechanisms in transit and at rest, their components and key management are those documented for the architecture chosen; roles and permissions are configured and accepted for the identities and systems actually connected; the events logged, their content, their retention period and who may access them are defined for the deployment chosen.
