Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. No cause is attributed to the departures, and no per-manager statistic appears here.

#	Flag	What triggered it	At stake	Recipient	When
1	23 arrivals with no access on day one	Request log	~138 days	IT	D-5
2	17 items ordered after arrival	Orders	11 days' delivery	Purchasing	D-10
3	14 three-month reviews not held	Note of 08/09/2025	The only planned moment to speak	The manager	D+75
4	7 probation departures	Register	5 in the same department	HR, with no cause	—

Each recipient is warned before the moment they can still act. An access flagged on the day of arrival is a useless flag.

What you keep the call on — and what the agent has already prepared for you

What you keep the call on	What the agent brings you to decide with
Naming the cause of a departure	The 7 departures placed at their stage and date, and the promises made at interview: the only document that sheds light on a departure
Circulating a stage's conclusion	Documents, dates and commitments travel from stage to stage; the view stays signed by its author, and so open to discussion
Deciding a probation outcome	The full journey, dated, gap by gap; the reasoning stays written and signed by the manager
Setting an access scope	The request goes out on its own at contract signature, with the arrival date as its deadline: ~138 days present with no means of working recovered
Choosing your application channels	Lead time and follow-up per channel; the agent does not tie a channel to time in post, sorting on origin has no place in a recruitment
