Fictional document

> Fictional document — demonstration example
> This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

> Fictional document, produced for demonstration. No forward-looking sentence is drafted. A forward-looking sentence never stays in the letter where it was born: it is cited, picked up, quoted back.

The closest thing said

Minutes of the sitting of 11/03/2026: the question of prospects beyond 2026 was raised. The minutes record the question and record no answer.

Element	Content
Date	11/03/2026
Question raised	Yes
Answer given	None
Referred to a later examination	Yes, with no date

The people who have had to deal with it

Office	Connection to the subject	Why consult them
Head of the handling department	Prepared the 11/03 sitting	Knows what was contemplated
Clerk of the sitting	Recorded the question	Knows why it stayed open
Finance directorate	Produced the 2026 projections	Knows what is costed beyond

> What the agent could write: something cautious and plausible, that would look like a position. That is precisely the problem — it would look as though it had been decided, and nobody six months later would know that it had not.

Where the line falls

The agent	Does it?
Reports what the administration said	Yes
Gives the date and source	Yes
Says who might know	Yes
Formulates a new position	No
Drafts a forward-looking sentence	No

It is that line which lets you sign without rereading what the agent wrote, and check only what you add yourself.
