Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. These four replies were correct on the day they were sent. No drafter did anything wrong, and no correction is proposed — there is nothing to correct.

#	Sent	Term cited	Amended on	Correct at its date?
1	12/03/2026	2-month processing time	04/05/2026	Yes
2	27/03/2026	Documents required, list of 6	04/05/2026	Yes
3	14/04/2026	2-month processing time	04/05/2026	Yes
4	29/04/2026	Point of submission	04/05/2026	Yes

Why flag them nonetheless: they circulate. A reply is kept, quoted, forwarded — and read in the present tense by whoever opens it two years later, with nothing on the document indicating the terms have changed.

What is proposed

Element	Content
Nature	A note, not a correction
Recipients	All 4, at once
Content	The terms have since changed, with the date of the change
Mention of an error	None — there is none

What appears in no summary

Never counted as	Why
An erroneous reply	It was correct at its date
A failing of the drafter	Time passed; there was no carelessness
An error rate for the department	Would push towards stating nothing precise

An indicator counting those four as errors would degrade every future reply while correcting none: drafters would learn to stay vague, which is exactly what recipients reproach administrations for.
