Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. The third flag is the only one handled the same day: an untransmitted act is being applied while the review period has not begun to run.

#	Flag	What triggered it	Useful moment	Recipient	Chase
1	Resolution with no financial annex	The report mentions it twice	Before sending	Drafting department	7 d
2	3 acts repeating a flagged defect	February observation	Before sending	Drafter + legal	7 d
3	Act of 14/07 not transmitted	No acknowledgement of receipt	Now	General secretariat	24 h
4	2 contradictory resolutions	Same sitting, 2 amounts	Before sending	2 drafters + clerk of the sitting	7 d

Three of the four flags have value only by arriving before sending. After transmission each is settled by a letter from the prefecture and then a corrective resolution — the same work, two months later, with the act applied in the meantime.

The four rules that give the flag its value — and what they earn you

The rule	What you gain
Calling an act unlawful stays with the State representative	The agent hands you a dated, sourced fact before sending: three flags out of four are worth something because they arrive beforehand, instead of a prefecture letter and a corrective resolution two months later
Transmission stays an act of the authority	The act goes out complete and checked, and a missing transmission is flagged to you before it costs you a deadline
No act is marked "compliant"	A mark with no legal value would read as a guarantee: what the agent hands you is the points checked with their source, each one defensible on its own
Observations are counted by type of act	You see the point in the template to fix — the one that will produce the same observation on every act that follows — instead of a count per drafter unrelated to the quality of the acts
