Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. Submission times are given, not only dates. A noon deadline is not a same-day deadline: the time appears on every flag, and it is what sets the chase.

#	Flag	What triggered it	Deadline	Recipient	Chase
1	Tender in 6 days, surfaced in time	No keyword in the title	14/08 at 12.00	Bid manager	4 h
2	2019 contract retendered	Notice published yesterday	11/09 at 12.00	Salesperson + management	24 h
3	Certificate expiring before submission	31/08 against 11/09 submission	11 days apart	Administration, immediately	24 h
4	2 tenders, same need	2 neighbouring buyers	04/09 and 18/09	Bid manager	7 d

> The second flag goes out on publication day itself. On an incumbent contract the first days serve to decide whether to fight — and that decision requires assembling four years of delivery.

Chase thresholds

Time to submission	Chase
Under 3 days	4 hours
Under 10 days	24 hours
Beyond	7 days

What the agent guarantees on every notice

What the agent guarantees	What you gain
Every notice arrives with its submission date, its documents and what it demands	The decision to bid is taken knowingly, against your workload and your references — and it takes minutes
The notice's criteria are set against your references, one by one	You see where you are strong and where a document is missing; the assessment belongs to the buyer, but you no longer discover it at the opening
The file is assembled, complete, and waiting to be submitted	Submission commits the company: it takes one gesture, at the moment you choose, and the chase moves to 4 hours as soon as under 3 days remain
Notices are ordered by submission date, with their requirements in plain words	A score would make people skip the reading: here you read three lines and decide, with no figure deciding for you
