Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. No answer is proposed. The agent could produce a plausible one, and it would become the authority's doctrine without anyone deciding it.

The question, in its most frequent wording

"What do we do when a resident brings a document that is not on the list but proves the same thing?"

Element	Value
Occurrences in 3 months	34
Different wordings	11
Answer found in the procedures	None
In the staff notices	None
In the training packs	None

Element	Value
In the minutes	None

> What exists is the list of documents — and nothing on what to do when a document falls outside the list. The answer does exist: it lives in long-standing officers' heads, and each learned it by asking a colleague.

The concrete cases cited alongside the question

Case	Occurrences
Certificate from a body instead of the listed proof	12
Equivalent foreign document	8
Expired document with a renewal under way	7
Statutory declaration offered by the resident	4
Others	3

What would allow the procedure to be written

Element	Available?
The 11 wordings	Yes
The concrete cases cited	Yes
The 3 officers whose answers are most often quoted afterwards	Yes
An answer drafted by the tool	No

The three officers are identified because those who asked go on to quote their answer. That is not an appraisal: it is the finding that the knowledge sits with them, and that half a day would be enough to write it down.
