Fictional document

Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. The record of declarations is the only thing that answers, two years later, "who decided this?".

What was recovered across 41 agents

Result	Value	What it prevented
Orphaned agents given an owner	17	6 of them were writing data
Agents placed under observation	5	**—
Stopped after a month with no calls at all	3	Needless cost and exposure
Serving a department unaware it depended on them	2	A blind shutdown
Agent creations abandoned after a flag	9	Nine duplicate rule sets
Agents using less than half their rights	29	That many rights withdrawable safely

What you keep

Item	What it allows
Inventory: owner, scope, review date	Knowing what exists and who answers for it
Rights granted against rights used	Withdrawing what is unused
Known dependencies between agents	Stopping without breaking
Subjects covered by several agents	Spotting an unsettled rule
Who declared what, without time limit	Answering "who decided this?"

The three capabilities closed by default, openable with one line

Capability	What it brings	What is supplied to open it
Agent shutdown by the platform	Immediate execution of a committee decision	The dependency file, already prepared
Reading a processing run's content	Audit or incident	A written, dated scope
Per-person usage	Steering adoption	Information notice and works council file

For the company to settle

How often an agent is reviewed: _____ months

Observation period before automatic shutdown: _____ months
