Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. The platform does no business work: it knows what exists and who answers for it.

#	Flag	On what	Recipient
1	17 agents with no owner	41 agents	Platform committee
2	3 agents, 3 rules on one subject	Execution logs	Whoever owns the subject
3	4 agents with excess rights	Access rights	Whoever manages entitlements
4	11 agents with no review date	Inventory	Their owner, then the committee

What is guaranteed across the 41 agents, and what the committee gains

What is guaranteed	What the committee gains

An agent causing trouble is flagged to its owner, never stopped unilaterally	No service falls because an inventory was overzealous: an agent may be the only thing doing something essential, and its owner is who knows that
The platform knows what exists and who answers for it; processing content stays with them	You hold a complete inventory without creating the company's fullest database — the one you would then have to protect as such
The measurement is on agents, never on users	Usage stays honest: a usage ranking would become a target, and the inventory would lose what makes it valuable
Three divergent rules on one subject come back together to whoever owns the subject	The arbitration is taken in one meeting, the three texts side by side: it is not a technical arbitration
Owner, scope and review date are the condition of going live	The 17 agents with no owner and the 11 with no review date are the last of them: from today the list stops growing

Scope of this document: the service operated by Blue Lemon Agent. For an agent deployed at your premises, the applicable location is that of the architecture set out in the quotation and verified before commissioning; local execution is announced only for the configuration explicitly described and accepted in the quotation; the applicable isolation depends on the deployment mode set out in the quotation, no dedicated isolation being presumed; the encryption mechanisms in transit and at rest, their components and key management are those documented for the architecture chosen; roles and permissions are configured and accepted for the identities and systems actually connected; the events logged, their content, their retention period and who may access them are defined for the deployment chosen.
