> Fictional document — demonstration example
> This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

> Fictional document, produced for demonstration. The break is flagged on every table where the series appears, rather than left to read as a fall.

| Use | Possible? | Why |
|---|---|---|
| Compare the months since April with each other | Yes | Same counting method |
| See an internal trend since April | Yes — +2%/month | 4 months is enough |
| Compare with last year | No | Two counting methods |
| Establish a seasonality | No | Requires the history |
| Project six months out | No | Requires the history |

> A table showing a 40% drop in April tells a false story, and it will tell it to everyone who opens it — all the more readily because the drop is dramatic.

The two documents already circulated

| Document | Circulated | What it shows | What is needed |
|---|---|---|---|
| Monthly dashboard | 05/2026 | A 40% drop in April | A note of the break |
| Quarterly tracking note | 07/2026 | A Q2 "in marked decline" | Withdrawal of the comparison |

What would repair the series

| Information sought | From | Effect |
|---|---|---|
| What changed in April | Whoever produces the data | The conversion rule |
| Scope widened? | The department | — |
| Different counting unit? | The department | — |
| Duplicates removed? | The department | — |

If someone in the department knows what changed, the whole series becomes usable again in a day. It is the best return in this entire document, and it requires no tool.
