Fictional document — demonstration example

This document is produced by the Blue Lemon Agent website to illustrate what an AI agent hands to its users. The companies, matters, amounts and people in it are invented. It has no legal, accounting or commercial value.

Fictional document, produced for demonstration. An agent's output is a reading, not a source.

Situation	Count
An agent cited another agent	14
Where the cited summary held an approximation	4
Where the next agent hardened it	4
Where an agent lied	0

With one agent, an approximation stays an approximation. With three agents in a chain, it becomes a fact, then a rule, and nobody knows where it came from.

The rule, without exception

Use of another agent's output	Allowed?
Read it to know where to look	Yes
Cite it as a source	No
Go back to the original source	Always

Cost of the rule	Value
Processings lengthened	380 of 2,340
Assertions whose source would be an agent	0

Such an assertion would be unverifiable, and it would look perfectly sourced.

For an agent deployed at your premises, the applicable location is that of the architecture set out in the quotation and verified before commissioning; local execution is announced only for the configuration explicitly described and accepted in the quotation; the applicable isolation depends on the deployment mode set out in the quotation, no dedicated isolation being presumed; the encryption mechanisms in transit and at rest, their components and key management are those documented for the architecture chosen; roles and permissions are configured and accepted for the identities and systems actually connected; the events logged, their content, their retention period and who may access them are defined for the deployment chosen.
